Subject: Personal Electrification Planner

To: <federal-electrification@googlegroups.com>

Hi all,

Today Rewiring America is launching an online Personal Electrification Planner that will help American homeowners go electric, and an “Electrification for Renters” page that includes multiple projects renters can undertake to go electric, as well as a guide for talking to your landlord, and two Rewiring America courses to become “electric enthusiasts” and “electric coaches” in their communities and online.

The intent is to continue to evolve and grow these resources, and we would very much appreciate your feedback (and feedback from your networks). Soon, the Personal Electrification Planner tool will help connect users with experts and resources in their area to help them start their electrification journey. In the coming months, additional features will be released, aimed at making the tool:

- More accessible for more Americans by adding language support (starting with Spanish) and by supporting users who have specific projects in mind rather than a plan to electrify their whole home.
- More actionable by matching folks with local contractors, rebate programs, and other resources that help them take on and complete upgrades.
- Even more personalized for every user by refining our savings and cost numbers based on market data and personalizing guides for different home types.

As always, please don't hesitate to reach out! Happy to answer any questions.

Best,

Sage
