Lucchesi park needs new turf. With the size of the fields and the number of teams that play there, all year round, trying to irrigate and maintain grass is a bad idea. While we have water this year, the previous 4 have been drought years, and fields don't get watered and turn to unplayable surfaces. So the idea that a thirsty grass surface is the more environmentally friendly option is dubious. My kids use this field for Baseball, and various Soccer teams. All year round.
